

VRIS UPDATE

Job Planning Resource Guide November 5, 2010 Number 290

SUMMARY OF UPDATES

The Job Planning Resource Guide has been updated for easier access and to more clearly identify what is covered in each section of the guide. The web resources have been removed from the guide since they can be located from the VRIS homepage under Resources. There is a complete list of outside resources to be utilized when providing career planning.

A new website The Career Index has been added to outside Resources: The website provides information on job openings in a local area. It also provides occupational information, characteristics, license and certification, experience and education, etc. It provides a short video to understand how the website can be used.
